President's Message

Dear Colleagues,

It is my pleasure to welcome you to the 2024-25 Academic Year in the California State University.

We have challenges and opportunities this year as we do our work to support and educate students, each other, and continue to produce excellent teaching, research, and service that makes the California State University one of the best university systems in the world.

Our most recent reopener bargaining gains were ratified in Spring 2024 after one-day strikes on four campuses in December 2023 and one-day of a planned weeklong strike in January 2024. That hard-fought agreement offers a vision for the CSU rooted in our anti-racism and social justice principles, including safety on campus, adequate and humane paid parental leave, gender inclusive restrooms, and wages that respect the work faculty perform to make the CSU a premier site of student success and faculty achievement. Our bargaining wins raised the salary floor for the most precarious and vulnerable faculty, among other gains.

CFA members always advocate for a system-wide budget to support the best learning conditions for students, Title IX enforcement, dismantling systemic inequity and oppression at every level of campus life, and combatting anti-Blackness in the CSU system. Protecting our Academic Freedom rights, producing a series of Equity Papers addressing various areas of inequity and challenge for students and faculty in the CSU, and demanding that the Chancellor's Office and Board of Trustees be accountable and responsible to the current generation of students and faculty are examples of work that will guide our efforts during the 2024-25 Academic Year. We will also prepare for successor bargaining; our contract expires June 30, 2025.

Our union is at its strongest when members attend meetings, volunteer, and serve as elected union leaders. We invite you to work directly with your CFA chapter to get involved in the bargaining campaign along with anti-racism and social justice work on campus. With CFA, faculty have a powerful voice to shape working conditions through bargaining and mobilizing for a strong contract.

It takes all of us working together to win equitable contracts, enforce our rights, and enjoy our hard-fought protections.

I am pleased and honored to have you as colleagues, and CFA is committed to supporting your work in the university.
